Nicaraguan Government Explains
Shooting Of Americans—Zelaya's
Friends Back of Trouble.

Washington, Sept. 23.—A dispatch to the navy department today from Rear Admiral Sutherland announced the arrival of Major Butler and a force of marines at Granada with Red Cross supplies for the citizens and pupils of the French college who had been isolated nearly fifty days. Details of the progress of the relief expedition make it appear that the rebels generally have displayed a fair disposition towards the American naval force and that the incident at Mayas last Thursday night, when three American marines were slightly wounded was not inspired by any of the leaders, but was the work of drunken rebels. This encourages officials here to believe there is no longer any probability of a fight between Rear Admiral Sutherland's force and the rebels.

Advices by American minister Langhorne at San Jose, Costa Rica, regarding the persons who signed the so-called protest of Central America against landing of American marines at Nicaragua, will cause the state department to completely disregard that document. The minister reports the moving spirits were part of the Zelaya administration, which the United States drove out of Nicaragua because of its atrocities and misdeeds.

Confer With Taft.
Washington, Sept. 23.—President Taft conferred during his ride from Baltimore to Washington this morning about Mexican and Central American affairs with Huntington Wilson, acting secretary of state, W. T. S. Doyle, chief of the Latin American bureau and J. R. Clark, Jr., solicitor of the state department. The state department officials went to Baltimore to meet the president. The gravity of the situation in Nicaragua and Mexico was discussed and the latest reports on the situation were laid before the president.

BINGHAM STRIKERS
WATCH FOR TROUBLERemain Quiet When Proposed Introduction of Strike Breakers

Utah, Sept. 23.—Although yesterday was marked with outward calmness at Bingham, the largest copper mining camp in the world, there was activity on the part of both the operators and the union men who are on strike. The miners are negotiating again today for a peaceful settlement of the situation but so far there is no indication of the owners and the strikers coming to a compromise.

Officials of the local miners' union were in conference most of the day. In the evening Yencio Terzich, executive board member of the Western federation of miners departed for Salt Lake City where he will confer with President Charles Moher of the federation relative to the action to be taken should the Utah Copper Co. attempt to resume operations with the strike breakers.

While the Utah Copper Co. remains silent as to their plans, the preparations which are being made have lead the union officials to think that they may attempt to resume operations and that there will be developments before the day is over.

One of the chief concerns of the company's officials is in being able to assure their skilled laborers who are not on strike that they shall have complete protection when resumption of operations is attempted.

Strikers from the Utah Copper Company mines crowded the streets here throughout the morning awaiting a statement of the company to resume operations. As the day wore on and no strike breakers were put to work, the men scattered to their homes or gathered about headquarters of the local miners' union.

TWO ALLENS ARRAIGNED ON THE CHARGE OF MURDER

Hillsville, Va., Sept. 23.—Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, the mountain gun-men, were arraigned here today in the same court room where on March 14, five persons were killed in a shooting affray of which they are alleged to have been the ring-leaders. By consent of lawyers on both sides the trials were transferred to Wytheville, Va. where two of their clan were sentenced to death and the others got long term sentences. Edwards will be tried first, beginning on Oct. 28, for the murder of Commonwealth Attorney Foster. Allen will be tried for the murder of Judge Massie when Edwards' trial is over. The prisoners were returned to the Roanoke jail.

WICKERSHAM IS TO PASS ON THE LAWSRecently Enacted Newspaper Publicity Law Will Be Decided By Attorney General.

Washington, Sept. 23.—President Taft has referred to Attorney General Wickersham the recently enacted newspaper publicity law for an opinion as to what construction is to be placed by the postmaster general upon the term "paid subscribers" and as to whether the law is to apply to publications circulated otherwise than through the mails.

The reference of those questions will not defer the effective date of the law October 1. Postmaster General Hitchcock said today the opinion would be in hand probably in ample time to enable the postoffice department to give the publisher before October 1 necessary blanks on which to make returns. The American Newspaper Association has protested to President Taft against the law. Officers of the association already have sent out to publishers and editors circular letters suggesting that steps be taken to protect the publications from what is regarded as a censorship of the press.

Be on Way to Douglas,
Arizona.

The Ambassador denounced the action against Nichols as one of persecution.

TAFT REPUBLICANS
MADE PLAN PUBLIC

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 23.—"Republicans favoring Taft" and "Republicans favoring Roosevelt" are the column heads under which it is probable the secretary if state will place two of the sets of presidential electors to be chosen here tomorrow by the nominating convention. The conventions are composed of the assembly nominees named at the recent primaries and the "holdover" state senators.

Candidates pledged to the support of Roosevelt and Johnson were widely successful at the primaries and the outcome of the republican convention is so much a foregone conclusion that the Taft men have announced their program in advance.

They will introduce a resolution endorsing President Taft and if as they expect it is defeated they will walk out, organize a convention of their own and nominate their own set of electors immediately after bringing suit in the federal court to contest the right of the Roosevelt electors to a place on the November ballot under the designation "republicans."

CHINESE SITUATIONS
CONTINUE CRITICALAmerican Consul Reports Relative
To Foo Chow Not Encouraging
Yet.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The American consul at Foo Chow, China, reports the situation as extremely critical. It is reported that the Peking government is sending a large force to remove from office the chief of police at Foo Chow who defying the order of the central government is threatening to destroy the city in case he is attacked. The consul reports unrest in the country district around Foo Chow. The state department is not likely to change its attitude toward the new Chinese republic as a result of the open letter sent by the Chinese Society of America to President Taft asking for the formal recognition of that government. Officials feel that the appeal is founded upon a misconception of the conditions.

Charlestown, W. Va., Sept. 23.—Reports from martial law districts morning indicated that striking miners and military had spent a quiet night, but more than usual stir was created here by the report that the acts of Governor Glascock's military commission were to be tested before Judge B. The petition was stated would question the right of Governor Glascock to declare martial law when a state of war did not exist.

UNITED IRISH LEAGUE
IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 23.—Unbounded enthusiasm over the prospects for the future of the Emerald Isle appears to be the keynote of a great gathering of distinguished Irish blood now in the city. Delegates are arriving from far and wide to take part in the annual convention of the United Irish League of America, which has its formal opening tonight in the Academy of Music. The regular sessions will begin tomorrow and continue over Wednesday and Thursday. Because of the belief that Home Rule for Ireland is a certainty, the convention likely will be the last big assemblage of the league. Among the notable present is William H. K. Redmond, M. P., brother of John Redmond, leader of the Irish parliamentary party.

SANITARY EXPERTS
BEGIN CONVENTIONImportant Health Conference Begins
With Thirty-two Leading Governments Represented.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—With thirty-two leading governments and forty-eight states pouring their wealth of knowledge to improve public welfare and to prolong human life into one common fund for the world's use, the Fifteenth International Congress on Hygiene and Demography opened its week's session here this morning. Four hundred and fifty of the foremost sanitary authorities in the world in formal addresses will contribute the latest discoveries and methods in their respective countries in the realm of adding comfort and years to human life. It is expected that the attendance at the nine sections into which the congress is divided will number five thousand, including many of the national, state and city health officials of this country.

While the object of the congress is to extend the knowledge and improve the practice of hygiene and public health in all the countries which participate, it is believed these benefits will accrue in largest measure to the country which is for the time being the host of the congress. That the state and municipal public health officials of this country attending the congress will have support outside of their own country is seeking to put into effect various health reforms that will be suggested by the congress is indicated by the action of large business enterprises in being represented at the proceedings. Among these is the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, which is represented by its general counsel R. L. Cox of New York, and by its health committee as follows: E. W. Jenkins, chairman, Birmingham; N. Y. J. R. Clark, Cincinnati; O. W. P. Dix, New York; J. L. B. Smith, Hartford; Conn.; K. K. Gore, Newark; N. J.; Dr. A. S. Knight, New York; L. S. Scott, Springfield, Ill.

The committee has systematically subdivided the program of the congress so that at least one member will be present at each address of interest to it. In particular the committee is following that part of the work of the congress dealing with the control of contagious diseases, including typhoid fever, diphtheria, cerebrospinal meningitis, tuberculosis, etc., with the sanitary aspects of public water supplies, including the sanitary control of water sheds, the purification of water by storage, water purification in Europe by biological methods; water sterilization by chemical methods and with the disposal of sewage and wastes by the various processes now carried on in the European countries. Wherever knowledge as to improved methods is obtained it is the intention of the life insurance interests to systematically add constituted authorities in applying those methods to conditions in this country. In this way, it is hoped to improve the mortality experience among life insurance policyholders.

It has been contended for some time by Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university that the practical application of all the reforms now known to modern hygiene would add fifteen years to the span of life in the United States. Most prominent among the defendants are Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers; Herbert S. Hockin, acting secretary-treasurer and the alleged head of the "dynamiting crew," John T. Butler, of Buffalo, first vice-president, and Michael J. Young, of Boston and Philip A. Cooley, of New Orleans, members of the executive board. Business agents and secretaries of local ironworkers' unions throughout the country, alleged to have been implicated in the illegal transportation of explosives from state to state, make up the greater part of the list of defendants, but officials of other unions also are indicted. They are Olaf A. Tveitnes, secretary of the Building Trades Council of California; William K. Beson, former president of the Detroit Federation of Labor; Clarence E. Dowd, organizer for the International Association of Machinists; Hiram Cline of Munich, Germany, and John J. and Stephen P. Meadows, business agent for the carpenters and joiners' unions of Indianapolis. United States Senator John W. Kern is to be chief counsel for the defendants and the government will be represented by District Attorney Charles W. Miller and his assistant, Clarence Nichols, who conducted the grand jury investigation.

STRIKE-BREAKERS ON THE CARS AT DULUTHErratic Service Marks Today's Running of the Minnesota
City's Car Line.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Duluth, Sept. 23.—An erratic car service with cars wandering up and down the lines, apparently lost marked the local street car strike situation here today. After waiting 20 to 40 minutes for a car, people bound for Woodland, on east end suburb, found themselves headed for Park Point.

"Oh, is this the way to Park Point?" asked a new conductor. "Well, I see the rails stop at the aerial bridge. We can't cross the canal so let's go up town."

"Say," said another strike-breaking conductor, to his motorman, "have you ever been in Superior? If you can find the way let's go over there and see that city." By making inquiries along the line this car finally got into Superior, although it plainly was marked Park End, Duluth.

Pickets are at the car barns from 4:00 a. m. until midnight. These men claim that the strike-breakers are becoming disaffected and are talking of leaving the city. Some have left, it is said. Reports of intoxicated crews were verified in one instance where the police forced two men to leave their car at the barn. One motorman was arrested for speeding a fast car through the city.

ALLEGED DYNAMITERS
ARE TO FACE A JURYTrials Will Take Place Next Week in Indianapolis—Of National Interest.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 23.—Charged with complicity in the so-called "dynamiting conspiracy," fifty-one men, present or former officials of labor unions, are to appear for trial before Judge Albert Anderson and a jury in the federal court of this district on October 1. Indicted under a federal statute forbidding the transportation of explosives on passenger trains, the defendants are alleged to have been concerned in a nation-wide plot to destroy the property of contractors employing non-union ironworkers, culminating in the explosion in the Los Angeles Times building, which cost twenty-one lives.

Fifty-four were indicted by the grand jury in its report of February 3 last, but of this number John J. and James B. McNamara are in San Quentin prison, Cal., and J. M. Gray, a former member of the executive board of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, has not been found by the federal authorities.

Most of the defendants are or have been connected with the ironworkers' association, which, since 1905, has been engaged in a struggle with the National Erectors' Association, an organization of structural steel and iron contractors employing union workmen. Members of this employers' association suffered loss from more than one hundred explosions from 1905 to 1911.

Following the arrest of John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the ironworkers' association, at its headquarters in this city, and the arrest of James B. McNamara and J. M. Gray, the McNamara brothers, in connection with the Los Angeles Times explosion, presentments were made to the federal grand jury of this district that officials of the ironworkers' association and other labor unions had been concerned in a conspiracy to intimidate employers of unorganized labor by a systematic destruction of their property.

One McNamara confession, in which he related that he had been employed by the McNamara brothers and Herbert S. Hockin, acting secretary-treasurer of the ironworkers' association, to dynamite bridges and buildings in course of construction by non-union contractors, was the basis of the government's inquiry. He is to be the principal witness for the government in the forthcoming trial. A mass of letters and other records, seized in a raid on the offices of the ironworkers' association, also will be offered as evidence of a general conspiracy secretly to convey dynamite and nitro-glycerin from coast to coast in a campaign against employers of unorganized workers.

Most prominent among the defendants are Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers; Herbert S. Hockin, acting secretary-treasurer and the alleged head of the "dynamiting crew," John T. Butler, of Buffalo, first vice-president, and Michael J. Young, of Boston and Philip A. Cooley, of New Orleans, members of the executive board.

Business agents and secretaries of local ironworkers' unions throughout the country, alleged to have been implicated in the illegal transportation of explosives from state to state, make up the greater part of the list of defendants, but officials of other unions also are indicted. They are Olaf A. Tveitnes, secretary of the Building Trades Council of California; William K. Beson, former president of the Detroit Federation of Labor; Clarence E. Dowd, organizer for the International Association of Machinists; Hiram Cline of Munich, Germany, and John J. and Stephen P. Meadows, business agent for the carpenters and joiners' unions of Indianapolis.

United States Senator John W. Kern is to be chief counsel for the defendants and the government will be represented by District Attorney Charles W. Miller and his assistant, Clarence Nichols, who conducted the grand jury investigation.

REPORT OF SETTLEMENT OF MANITOWOC STRIKE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Manitowoc, Wis., Sept. 23.—Report of the settlement of the strike of the molders against the aluminum casters here connected with the shops at Detroit and Cleveland cannot be confirmed and local officials of the company have no hope for an immediate settlement. The strike has been on for several weeks. A. Renek, a Hungarian workman and a strike breaker, is being held charged with the murder of Frank Micka, a union man who though employed in another plant, is said to have been involved in the strike troubles. There are about one hundred men out of the shops here but so far the plant has been kept open at Manitowoc.

CHINESE LOAN WILL BE OFFERED PUBLICTwenty-Five Million To Be Given To Public To Subscribe For If They Wish.

London, Eng., Sept. 23.—Half of the Chinese loan of fifty million dollars is to be offered in London for subscription on Thursday or Friday of this week according to Charles Birch, head of the Anglo-Russian bank who has been prominent in the negotiations. Lloyd's bank is supposed to stand sponsor for the loan. Capitalists here have hesitated to believe the independent group of banks has been able to cut the ground from under the feet of the "six power combination" representing the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and Japan. The latest advices from Peking, however, appear to be convincing on this point. The British government has retreated from the position supporting the Hongkong and Shanghai bank as a result of the newspaper attacks which accused them of backing a monopoly. This independent loan is largely due to the efforts of Dr. George Morrison, former correspondent of the London Times in Peking and now political adviser of the president of the Chinese republic.

HOLDS CONFERENCE
REGARDING SUITSNew York Attorney Confers With President Taft on the Oil
Trust Movement.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 23.—Samuel Untermyer of New York, attorney for the house "money trust" investigating committee and for the Waters-Pierce Oil Company in its fight with the Standard Oil Company, conferred with President Taft at the White House office today. Reports that the government was watching developments in the Waters-Pierce suit surrounded the conference with interest. No engagements had been made for Mr. Untermyer, but he was admitted immediately to the president's office. It has been reported that testimony developed in the Waters-Pierce case might be used by the government as a basis for investigation of how the Standard Oil Company is carrying out its decree of dissolution. Contempt of court proceedings have been reported pending. It is known that Attorney General Wickersham has been receiving a stenographic copy of testimony in the case and giving it his personal attention.

Later it was said at the White House that Mr. Untermyer and Mr. Farrar had asked President Taft to permit the "money trust" committee to draw on the government department for certain information they want to use in connection with the money trust investigation. It was said Mr. Taft asked them to submit specific requests in writing and promised to decide soon if he could grant them their information.

The Standard Oil company of New Jersey is still assigning sales territory to oil refineries of its former subsidiaries outside of its own territory, according to testimony given today at the hearing of the Waters-Pierce Standard Oil litigation. Kenneth Adams, assignment clerk of the New Jersey company, testified when asked a series of questions by counsel for the Waters-Pierce company in line with the latter's contention that there was no real competition among the various companies.

CATHOLIC CONFERENCE TOOK UP THE CHARITABLE WORK

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 23.—The national conference of Catholic charities in biennial session today resolved itself into sections to discuss charitable work and organization. The delegates will be received by President Taft at the White House this afternoon.

Adequate laws and their enforcement for the guardianship and protection of children were urged by Leonora L. Meder of Chicago, a member of the Catholic Woman's League. She recommended the prevention of street selling at night by child peddlers; state support of children whose natural protectors had been imprisoned and greater protection to girl immigrants against the dangers of the white slave traffic.

SAYS ROOSEVELT LEADS A ONE MAN PARTY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Pittsburg, Kan., Sept. 23.—Eugene V. Debs, socialist candidate for president, addressing a picnic of Crawford county socialists today, answered Col. Roosevelt's reference to him as "wildcat-leader" by charging that Roosevelt is the leader of a "one man party."

"Angered because defeated by the republican party," said Mr. Debs, "Roosevelt decided to have a party of his own. So he called a convention at Chicago, went to Chicago, nominated himself by acclamation, accepted the nomination and now is campaigning as the 'people's' own candidate."

The youngsters paraded the streets and prevented the children who did not join them from entering the school building.

MANY MATTERS ARE TO BE DECIDED BY POLITICAL BOSSESMilwaukee Will Be Storm Center For The Next Few Days—Republicans, Bull Moose and Democrats to Gather.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 23.—The Cream City promises to be the Mecca for the politicians for the coming week at least and with plans for the formal opening of the republican state headquarters, the first meeting of the newly elected state central committee on Tuesday, the Bull Moose and their plan for nominating a state ticket to oppose McGovern, for the same day and Chairman Paul Henney of J. Neau arriving to open the democratic state headquarters and begin his work for the election of Karel things will be moving.

Scott is Ready.
One of the first things to be considered by the new republican state central committee will be the election of a secretary. Just who will be named is not known as yet, and it will not be decided upon until it is certain Mr. Essman, present superintendent of public property, makes up his mind that he can not serve. Chairman Scott is ready for the fray and as the committee is made entirely of La Follette's closest supporters it is safe to say that the McGovern men and small comfort in the plans.

McGovern to be on Hand.
McGovern is rumored to be on hand at the opening of the committee. It is also deeply hinted that La Follette will be in seclusion somewhere and in close touch with the committee all the time. While all is quiet on the surface there is a gigantic upheaval going on beneath the top in the republican party and many are asking the question whether McGovern will admit that La Follette put one over on him in Madison last week and will knuckle down and stand the "punishment."

The Bull Moose.
Medill McCormick and Henry Cochems have plans all mapped out for the session of the committee named at the Bull Moose convention two weeks ago, to put a state ticket in the field. Some are unkind enough to state that this is merely a bluff to make McGovern show his hand. Cochems, Thwaites and other Bull Moose leaders continue to assert they had promised from McGovern to come out for Roosevelt when the time was opportune. That if he breaks his word they are going to put a full state ticket in the field and work for its election.

Hicks For Governor.
Colonel John Hicks of Oshkosh, who has resigned a Taft presidential elector at large, to join the ranks of the Bull Moose organization, is said to be willing to make the run as head of the ticket. Arthur Prehn, of Wausau, delegate to the national convention in Chicago and one of McGovern's appointees to the state board of agriculture is flirting with the opportunity to run in the second place on the ticket and Cochems is confident he can find plenty of others ready to "sacrifice" themselves for the good of the cause.

Democrats Ready.
While all this is going on the democratic state central committee under Paul Henney's leadership is getting ready for a fight to the last ditch campaign in the Karel's election. Sentiment around Milwaukee points to a great wave of sentiment in favor of Karel and it would not be surprising if this sentiment swept all over the state. Henney headed Karel's campaign in the pro primary campaign and is well fitted for the bigger job that now confronts him. It is to be a merry war while it lasts.

Stalwarts Wait.
Meanwhile E. L. Phillip and the last of the old stalwart guard is keeping close watch on affairs and if there is no indication of the republican state central committee solving the election tangle they are going to do something. Just what this is not certain. However it is safe to say that something will be done that will give republicans of Wisconsin an opportunity to vote for Taft and see their vote counted at the polls in November.

Three Resigned.
Three of the presidential electors on the republican ticket have sent their resignations to the secretary of state. Col. John Hicks of Oshkosh, who is an elector on the Roosevelt ticket, tendered his resignation some time ago, as did A. C. Anderson of Menomonee.

On Saturday of Racine, elector for the first district, was received by Secretary of State. The republican state central committee will fill the vacancies. Whether this will be done at the meeting of the committee, which will be held here Monday night, is not known. The matter may be laid over until a subsequent meeting.

REPORT OF BUREAU OF LABOR REVIEWS ADVANCE IN PRICES

Investigation in Industrial Centers Shows Marked Increase in Cost of Fourteen Food Products.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 23.—The most marked upward trend of the cost of living is disclosed in the Federal Bureau of Labor's report of an investigation of prices for the past ten years conducted in the important industrial centers of 32 states. Fifteen most important articles of food, as well as coal comprising two thirds of a working-man's needs were investigated. In many cities the investigators gathered statements of merchants on the cost of living and specimens of these are published in the report.

On June 15, 1912, the report shows, fourteen of the fifteen articles of food were higher than a year before, and ten had advanced in the past ten years more than fifty percent over the retail price for the ten year period 1890-1899.

During the last decade prices of potatoes changed most and sugar the least. Their advances were 11.9 and 8.5 per cent, respectively. During the last year, bacon, which decreased only one-tenth of one per cent, was the only one of the fifteen principal articles of food that showed a decline in price, while nine of the fifteen advanced more than ten percent, varying from 2.4 percent for milk, to 18.6 for round steak. Of the fifteen, only eggs, butter, milk, and sugar were lower, but the price of three of these four is normally lower during summers than during winters.

Specimens of the statements of merchants in various cities published in the report follow:

New York—"Meats in general are so high that if prices continue much longer will be obliged to close up business. Have already lost about $200 since advance in prices."

Chicago—"Jobbing price on flour has advanced 80 cents per barrel and unless there is a decline in the near future retail prices will advance."

Baltimore—"If the present high prices prevail much longer in the wholesale market, I do not know what will become of the retail dealers."

Boston—"Cheap sirloins are so high and poor that I am not cutting any at present. Both grades of cattle have gone up and the above prices just about let me out without profit." (A second) "Beef, especially on cheaper cuts, 10 to 20 per cent higher." (A third) "The high price of meats is causing us to close our place of business on or about July 4."

New Haven—"Beginning this week we will advance two cents a pound on all meats, as we are paying the highest price for beef and lamb in my time. I cannot say the reason; the jobber blames the farmer; the farmer blames the high price of corn."

Philadelphia—"No money in meats at the above prices." (A second) "We paid June 17, 1912 cents a pound for rumps and rounds and 11 1/2 cents a pound for chunks of beef, the highest price in the history of our business."

Salt Lake City—"Everything seems to be at the top but nothing shows any decline."

Remarks of merchants accompanying the price reports for May 15 told the same story. These are examples:

Boston—"Probably this is the last month we will be in the provision business. The high prices of meats are driving us out. We have been in business 15 years but must get out before we are put out."

Fall River—"The high prices of meats have cut our meat business almost in two. The cheaper cuts, which we ordinarily sell for six to ten cents a pound, now we have to get 10 to 14 cents."

Atlanta—"The wholesale cost of fresh meats, flour and butter has advanced but we still are holding at old prices."

Indianapolis—"Owing to the high price of feed, the milk supply this month is the lowest for May on record." (A second) "Meat prices have made a sharp advance owing to the scarcity in the medium grades of meat and we have been compelled to handle higher priced meats."

Milwaukee—"We were compelled to raise our price of beef because of the rise in the wholesale price."

Los Angeles—"The decline of price on potatoes is due to speculators losing their grip on the market. Shipments have been carried from other states and as new potatoes will come in freely in a few weeks they had to let go."

Memphis—"I have paid more for meats this year than I ever paid since I have been in business. I can't see any change for sometime to come."

Cincinnati—"The recent floods have sent cattle to market before their maturity and grain being the highest in years has had the tendency to give us the highest meat we have handled in years. May 15 we paid 8 1/2 cents a pound for steer cattle; ten years ago 5 1/4 cents."

Pittsburgh—"Good beef is scarce and high and is cause of driving other meat up. Long, severe winter and high price of grain supposed to be reason."

Portland—"Raise of prices for beef and pork is due to shortage of stock." This was the showing made for the food prices in the last year, according to the report, on the foods investigated:

Decrease in price: smoked bacon, 1.1 percent. Increase in price: fresh milk, 2.4; smoked ham, 2.7; hens, 3.5; granulated sugar, 6; Irish potatoes, 7.5; wheat flour, 10.7; pork chops, 12.2; pure lard, 11.3; strictly fresh eggs, 11.8; corn meal, 12.7; creamery butter, 15.2; sirloin steak, 17.1; rib roast 17.5; round steak, 18.6.

The advance during the decade, comparing the price June 15 last with the average for the ten years, was as follows: granulated sugar, 8.5 per cent; strictly fresh eggs, 26.1; fresh milk, 22.9; creamery butter, 33.3; wheat flour 39.3; pure lard 55.3; hens, 58.1; sirloin steak, 59.5; smoked ham, 61.3; corn meal, 63.7; rib roast 63.8; round steak, 64; pork chops, 66; smoked bacon, 66.7; Irish potatoes, 111.0.

Coal also advanced considerably in some cities. The price on April 15, as compared with a year before, was higher for Pennsylvania anthracite, stove size, in 25 out of 29 cities from which reports were secured and there was no change of price in the remaining four cities. During the same period, Pennsylvania anthracite, chestnut size advanced in 25 out of 27 cities; and bituminous advanced in 17 out of 32 cities; the price remained unchanged in 12 cities and declined in 3 cities. In the North Atlantic states Pennsylvania white ash coal, stove size, was 11.3 percent higher on April 15, 1912, than a year before, Pennsylvania anthracite white ash, chestnut size, 11.9 higher, and bituminous 11 per cent higher. These were the largest increases while in the western states the prices were unchanged or there was no date for anthracite and bituminous coal was 1.7 percent less than April 15, 1911.

The net prices of gas for household use on April 15, compared with the previous years, showed that reductions ranged from 5 to 15 cents for manufactured gas among 54 companies in 36 cities and practically unchanged among the natural gas plants.

INTERNATIONAL MEET IS HELD IN BOSTON

Industrial, Judicial and Civic Matters Will Be Discussed by Delegates Present.

Boston, Sept. 23.—Commercial, industrial, judicial and civic subjects of far-reaching interest will be discussed by delegates from all parts of the world who will assemble in Boston this week for the sessions of the Fifth International Congress of Chambers of Commerce. Forty foreign countries, including Russia and several Central and South American republics never before represented will have a part in the congress. Seven hundred delegates of national and international prominence, and nearly all leaders in the commercial life of their home cities, will attend. Programs for their use have been prepared in sixteen languages and notes taken on all discussions will be transcribed in many tongues.

The first three days of the congress, which will open Tuesday, and continue through Saturday, will be devoted to business; the latter part of the week to local sight-seeing, after which a tour to nearly a score of cities will be begun. Charles Nagel, secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, will represent the United States on the opening day and will deliver an address of welcome and on Thursday evening, President Taft will be the speaker at the congress banquet.

The establishment of a fixed day for Easter, previously discussed by the congress, will be among the matters considered. The congress at Milan, in 1906, disclosed a wide range of opinion on the subject. The commercial bearings of the mobility of certain holidays will be recurred to and more definite views on long agitated calendar reforms will be heard. Especial interest is indicated in the proposition for a calendar year of precisely equal divisions and subdivisions, with each day of the month always the same day of the week, made possible by establishing New Years as a day outside the regular cycle of days, and the following day of January 1.

These subjects will be presented in a communication from Louis Canon-Legrande of Mons, President of the Congress. The cost of living and the desirability of an international conference on the subject will be advanced in a report by Professor Irving Fisher of Yale University. Other subjects for consideration include:

The establishment of an international court of arbitral justice for suits between individuals and foreign states; the unification of legislation relating to checks; international postal reforms in view of the new convention of the Universal Postal Union in 1913; commercial statistics and the immediate institution of an international office; the desirability of an international conference upon the validation of through-order-notify bills of lading, and of legislation and other means for making the system more effective; the desirability of international uniformity of action in the matter of consular incomes.

Official recognition was extended to the Boston congress by a resolution of congress. Under this resolution the United States sent invitations to the governments of the world, in addition to the business organizations. Appropriations totaling $150,000 have been made by the state of Massachusetts, the city of Boston and individuals, for the entertainment of the visitors.

Realism in Babylon.

"A great deal of fun has been poked at the realistic school of art," says a New York artist, "and it must be confessed that some ground has been given to the enemy. Since the Wolgast-McFarland battle has been declared off, eastern sport writers have been urging a meeting of McFarland and Jack Britton. "The most scientific bout of the century," they claim it would be. "Yes, reply Packey's friends, 'if running away by one and a determined chase by the other are ingredients of science."

James Meredith, the Mercersburg academy school boy whose sensational running was one of the features of the Olympic games at Stockholm, has entered the University of Pennsylvania.

Manager McGraw of the New York Giants is preparing Mathewson, Marquard and Tesreau for the world's series, which opens October 8. These are the men who will do the twirling for McGraw. Mathewson and Tesreau are giving the Giants manager trouble, but Marquard worries him sorely. McGraw has tried everything to get Marquard back in the game. He has traveled with him, he has been successful. One day he is good and the next time out the big southpaw is wild and is hit hard.

Jean Anderson, the Frenchman, is coming to America to enter the University of California. He is the greatest high jumper and all-round athlete in France.

Tommy Kilbane, Cleveland featherweight, who, after being knocked out by Phil Brock several months ago, announced that he would retire from the ring sport, has changed his mind. He isn't going to quit after all, but according to present plans will be busier than ever. On September 27 he is scheduled to box 12 rounds with Steve Ketchel of Chicago at Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The National baseball commission has ordered that no seats for the world's series shall be sent through the mails this year. This means that the tickets must be put on public sale both in New York and Boston and that those who want to attend must stand in line and take their chances.

Freddie Welsh, who is now matched to meet Matt Wells in London early in November for the lightweight championship of England, arrived in America recently and was at once approached by Billy Gibson with a proposition to take Ad Wolgast's place against Packey McFarland. Welsh has met McFarland three times. The last battle was a twenty-round affair in London and was called a draw.

Ernie Hjertberg, trainer of the Swedish athletes for the next four years is said to have signed a contract for something like $5,000 a year. With the exception of Mike Murphy's fee at the University of Pennsylvania, this is the highest figure ever known to have been paid to an athletic coach.

Jem Driscoll, the champion English lightweight, is on his way to America for his third visit. He wants to meet Ad Wolgast, Packey McFarland and Johnny Kilbane. He may go to Australia from America.

THOROUGH COACHING FOR PRESENT WEEK

High School Football Squad Will Be Given Some Strenuous Work-Outs—Woodworth Aids Coach.

Football practice at the High School was again suspended last Friday on account of the wet weather. The locals, however, have been discussing among themselves the new rules and new plays which they will use the coming season. They also watched the games of last Saturday with great interest.

In reviewing these games they found that two plans of attack were used. In the Carlisle-Albright College game, which resulted in a score of 50 to 7 in favor of the Indians, they found the old line plunging style of game used entirely by both sides. Again in looking at the Knox College and Galesburg High school game, they found it to have been played open and much forward passing used. These two plans of attack will be tried by the locals, in an effort to gain ground.

A strenuous practice will be held this week, and the squad are looking for a hard time. More spirit is throughout the school and squad at present and they look for some hard games. "Cherry" Woodworth, a former high school star here, and now at Marquette University, where he played tackle last season, will be on the coaching staff tonight, and will assist Prof. Coplan in showing the linemen their methods of playing. Coach Curtis is optimistic about a game on the coming Saturday.

SEVEN GAME SERIES TO DECIDE HONORS

Cubs Win Second Game From Cardinals But Four Games' Out of Seven Will Be Championship Test.

By winning their game with the Cardinals yesterday afternoon, the Cubs secured two straight victories in the city championship baseball series, and according to the first arrangement by which two games out of three were necessary to decide the title, the Cubs have secured the honors. It has been agreed between the two clubs, however, that a seven game series be played, and the honors will go to the team winning four games.

The Cubs secured the game yesterday by the score of 5 to 1, a victory which was much easier than the one on the preceding Sunday when it took eleven innings to win by a 2 to 1 score. The Cardinals were unable to connect with Berger's curves at opportune time yesterday and were unable to get but the one tally. The Cubs were fast on bases and played a heady game.

The closeness of the two contests is given as the reason for playing a seven game series. All the games will be played at the driving park diamond, one game every Sunday.

Yesterday's lineups were:
Edison 1F Hanson
J. Brown 1B Porter
Hill SS Abraham
Ryan 2B Harper
G. Cronin 2B Sullivan
P. Cronin RF Greene
Howard CF Nehr
Wilson C Doran
Connell P Berger

The new people added this season were selected for their peculiar fitness for the roles they were to assume and it is safe to predict that a "better than ever" line can safely be added to the advertising matter. "The Missouri Girl" will be presented at the Myers Theater Sunday September 29, matinee and evening.

The unvarying success of Fred Raymond's comedy, "The Missouri Girl," has become proverbial among the theatrical profession, and along the Rialto, or any place where actors congregate, you will hear the usual remark, "Haven't he got a gold mine." The reason is plain. The play is one that creates fun and amusement in large quantities, the company presenting it is composed of the best people in the profession, and the management insists on their best efforts at all times. Five of the present cast have been successful stars at different times. "The Missouri Girl" will be presented at the Myers Theater Sunday September 29, matinee and evening.

"OFFICER 666"

"Officer 666," when it appeared in New York and Chicago, was accorded the most flattering expressions of approval by both the press and public. It lived up to the prediction of its censors by recording the longest runs ever registered in either cities named for a play of its class, and now that we are to see the famous policeman at the Myers Theater, Tuesday, October 8, interest in the piece has been further aroused.

WISCONSIN FOOTBALL TEAM IS SHOWING UP NICELY.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 23.—In accordance with conference rules which prohibit football coaching before Sept. 20, Coach Turner did not take any active direction of the practice of the past few days and his assistants have viewed the candidates romp back and forth over the freshman field with considerable interest.

The coach has announced, however, that light work will be on the slate for next week and that the team will meet twice a day for practice until the University opens. Among those who have reported for the first official practice are: Alexander, Criswell, Castle, Collins, High, Hoeft, Wheeler, Maurer, Nehlin, Moffet, T. Powell, W. Powell, Busch, Schmidt, Tormoy, Sullivan, Zinkie, Woods, Beattie, Bright, Ed Gillette, Clayton, Van Ripper, Burger, Bellows, Heyman, Bann and Crisman.

Coach "Bill" Juneau will be assisted by Earl S. Driver, the well-known former varsity star and "Germany" Schultz. Captain Hoeft never looked better. Tanned from a summer outing in the northern woods the captain races up and down the gridiron with the same endurance and speed that he did when at his best last season. Al Tormoy is on the field for the quarterback position and promises to make good. He has a whirlwind of speed and handling the ball well. Tormoy has been training all summer and was never in a more fit condition.

ST. PAUL TEAM IS WITHOUT A MANAGER

Resignation of Mike Kelly Leaves Saints Without a Leader—No Election For Three Months.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 23.—The St. Paul American Association baseball team is without a manager and probably will be for the next three months according to the owner, George E. Lemmon. Mike Kelly, manager of the team for the past ten years with the exception of the seasons of 1907 and 1908, recently resigned and left the team at Milwaukee to become the guiding star of the Indianapolis team. Mr. Lemmon stated that no negotiations have been made with any one to become Kelly's successor and none will be for several weeks.

PIRATES TO CLAIM GAME WITH WINNERS

Challenge Will Be Issued to Winner of Cub-Cardinal Series by Manager Manthei.

Pointing to the record of his team for the past season and contending that they are consequently in line for the city championship, Manager Manthei of the Pirates amateur baseball club will issue a challenge to the winner of the Cub-Cardinal series. Manthei says that the Pirates have been waiting for four weeks for a game with the Cardinals. The Pirates' record for the year consists of thirteen games won against two lost. They have met some of the best teams in the county and have always made a good showing. The Pirates' line-up is a strong one and they are confident of making a strong bid for the honors in the city.

"WHAT'S THE USE?"
(Oroville (Wash.) Gazette.)
Taft said in his Winona speech that the Payne-Aldrich tariff was the best ever, and was damned for it.
Roosevelt said in a signed article in the Outlook that the Payne-Aldrich tariff was better than any of its predecessors, and was applauded as an authority.
Taft prosecuted the trusts and was branded as a fool politician and a tool of the interests.
Roosevelt exonerated Paul Morton, a self-confessed anti-trust violator, of the Sherman anti-trust law, and he stopped the prosecution of the harvester trust, and for these things he was acclaimed as a friend of the people and their one great saviour from the designs of the money power.
Taft initiated, secured and consistently defended the Canadian reciprocity treaty and was repudiated by the farmers of the country as a consequence.
Roosevelt at first approved and advocated the treaty, praised Taft for securing its passage, then a little later denounced it and made it an issue against the president in his pre-convention campaign. For this he was given increased devotion.
Taft carefully examined the records in the Lorimer case, asked several senators to do likewise, urged Roosevelt to help to rid the senate of Lorimer, and for his pains he was branded as a supporter of Lorimer before the convention and then rebuked by the senate for endeavoring to have the Illinois senator unseated. He is considered to have been weakly, pusillanimously and ignominiously wrong throughout.
Before examining the record Roosevelt dramatically refused to sit at a banquet with Lorimer, agreed with the president to help unseat him, then denounced the president as a friend of Lorimer, and when Lorimer was expelled from the senate, gloried in the fallen reputation like an executioner over the dead body of a victim, shouting without rhyme or reason, "I did it, it was my fight, and I won." For which he is forever immortalized in the minds of his countrymen.
Taft secured the corporation tax law, the maximum and minimum tariff provisions in the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, the tariff board and the publication of campaign contributions law and was denounced as a friend of privilege and subservient to the bosses.
For seven years Roosevelt dodged the tariff, ridiculed Bryan's demand for the publication of campaign contributions, then later praised the present tariff law and the tariff board as the only proper solution of the tariff problem, and is hailed as the enemy of privilege and the one champion of the people as against the bosses.
As secretary of war, Mr. Taft went into Oklahoma at the request of Roosevelt and pleaded with the people to reject a Constitution that provided for the initiative, referendum and the recall as subversive of representative government. As president he vetoed the Arizona statehood bill on the same grounds. For this people say that he betrayed Roosevelt, and Roosevelt policies, and has changed from what Roosevelt thought he was to some monstrous sort of being.
Roosevelt sent Taft to Oklahoma to denounce direct legislation and said that what he thought about the Constitution that contained provisions of that kind wasn't fit to print. He ridiculed Bryan's slogan of "Let the people rule." Later he went into Arizona and opposed the recall of judges, and a few days afterward in California approved the same provision. Then in his Columbus speech went further and demanded the recall of judicial decisions and adopted Bryan's former plank of "Let the people rule." Now people say that Roosevelt hasn't changed, but that it is Taft who changed and that is why Roosevelt is fighting him and why he ought to fight him.
Taft changed a big deficit in the national treasury to a surplus in three years, lifted the postal department out of debt for the first time in years, and secured the establishment of postal savings banks, and is branded as an incapable executive.
Roosevelt plunged the country into debt, the deficit growing larger each year; failed to improve the postal service or secure postal savings banks in seven years, and is acclaimed the greatest executive in the history of the country.
Taft preached against war and negotiated peace treaties and is regarded as an inhuman monster.
Roosevelt has glorified war and opposed the peace treaties and is looked upon as a godlike benefactor of humanity.
Roosevelt built a steam roller and manipulated it ruthlessly in 1904 and 1908 to gain his ends, then handed it over to Taft.
This column of comparison, as to promise and fulfillment, on the part of President Taft and his predecessor, is so true to history, that it is well worth a careful reading.
The claim is made for Roosevelt that he does things, and that Taft is simply an echo, but what does the record show? The colonel is a noisy performer, and at his best with a brass band accompaniment, while Taft is a quiet worker. The republicans of the country can well afford to think twice before forsaking their party for the Bull Moose aggregation.

WITH THE INCENSE BURNERS.
Gov. McGovern's little hour of political selfassertion has gone aglimmering. Fumigated, scrubbed and ticked at the Maple Bluff sanitarium, he emerges with not a speck of his Chicago treason clinging to his person.
"Verily, the Taft steam-roller is of the garden variety compared with the article employed by Dr. La Follette.
"But the governor's brief defiance of the erstwhile Alpha and Omega of local progressiveness has had one salutary result, at least. It has revealed the fact that Mr. La Follette can no longer afford to cast into outer darkness an influential follower who manifests a mind of his own.
"In the good old days, when the senator was the political Brahmin of Wisconsin from whom all thought and power issued and into whom all thought and power returned, heresy like that of the governor would have meant his sudden and complete expurgation from the sanctified body.
"It is different now. Senator La Follette is no longer the beginning and the end. Gov. McGovern may need him, but he is also the governor. So while he still has the power to compel the recantation of heresy and to impose the rites of penance, he no longer dares to excommunicate.
"And that is progress, indeed. Although the La Follette steam-roller proved to be in as good working order as ever, the spirit of independence that asserted itself in the case of many candidates was a healthy sign, as new as it is hopeful.
"That's talk right from the shoulder, from the Milwaukee Free Press, the original La Follette organ. Time brings many changes, and is a good regulator.
THE NEW CROP.
"The political campaign is attracting remarkably slight attention, considering its national character. This is true, not only in Wall street, but almost generally throughout the country and signifies that people are too greatly engrossed with the activity of their own affairs to permit their energies to be diverted by political arguments or movements. The crops are providing a tremendous tonnage for the railroads. The arrivals of wheat at Duluth, Minneapolis and Chicago—the great primary markets—for the first eighteen days of September showed the enormous total of 21,064 cars, which compares with 10,341 cars during the corresponding days of last year. Accepting the capacity of the average car to be 1,200 bushels, we have, therefore, total receipts of 25,276,800 bushels at these three centers alone, compared with only 12,409,200 bushels in 1911. This of course is but a beginning, as the season of shipment has only begun."
With a bumper crop, more than a political campaign is required to retard prosperity. For the first time in many years the big steel mills have gone through the summer without the customary shut down and the demand for labor is greater than the supply.
President McKinley said of protection in 1891: "This policy of protection must be maintained and continued, because it represents to us the highest possible civilization and the best and noblest destiny. They talk about things being cheaper from the other side. There is nothing cheap from abroad to this people, that means idleness among themselves. The revenue tariff levels down; a protective tariff levels up. A revenue tariff would cheapen products by cheapening men; a protective tariff would cheapen products by elevating men and getting from them their best skill, their best genius, their best inventions." That's good, sound republican doctrine, on which the country has prospered, as never before. Is there any occasion for a change of administration?
Colonel Roosevelt has much to say, in his campaign speeches, about what he proposes to do for the common people, and talks about a special session of congress to consider questions of human interest. The fact should not be overlooked that President Taft is working in practical ways, along the same lines. Through the diplomatic service, investigation is being made in France and Germany concerning their system of co-operative credit, whereby the farmer is enabled to secure loans on long time, at a low rate of interest. This is done through Mortgage Loan associations, or mortgage banks, under government supervision. President Taft is trying to discover some practical plan to thus aid the American farmer.
Mrs. La Follette discovered that it was hard work to talk against a horse race, at the Fox River Valley fair, the other day. The farmers and their wives were more interested in horses than in suffrage.

MAYOR J. A. FATHERS
BACK FROM WINNIPEG
Returned Saturday Evening From Attending Meeting of Sovereign Grand Lodge There.
Mayor James A. Fathers, who has been attending the meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Odd Fellows at Winnipeg, during the last week returned at Saturday night. He reports Winnipeg a very progressive, thriving city and speaks very highly of the manner in which its citizens and city officers entertained the thousands of Odd Fellows who were their guests. Mayor Fathers was one of the judges of the drilling contests of the Patriarchs Militant. Fifteen thousand Odd Fellows marched in the main procession.
Winnipeg, says Mayor Fathers, is very much of an American city, the emigrants from the "states" taking the lead and assuming the control in business. It now has a population near 200,000. The many railway lines radiating from it have contributed liberally toward its growth and have in fact "made" the city. A great deal of building is being done and there are evidences of great activity on every hand.
The streets of the city are exceptionally wide, a width of one hundred feet being common. It is usual to have a broad parkway in the center with lawn, trees and shrubbery. Street car tracks are placed so far apart that an automobile can pass between them, and there is no such thing as a "death strip" where persons may be crushed between passing cars. Raised platforms are placed at the end of each block and on either side of the street. The cars make regular stops at these and the passengers are meanwhile protected from passing vehicles and do not encumber the street corners. The platforms are not unsightly and can be removed to clear the street for processions such as were held there this week.
The Winnipeg city market is a very large one and well patronized by the public and producers. Canadian prices seem to be higher than in the United States except for clothing and woolen goods. The people impressed upon Mayor Fathers as being loyal and law respecting citizens. The anti-spitting law was religiously obeyed even by urchins. Liquor selling regulations are rigid and well enforced.
Saskatoon, the capital of Saskatchewan, he said is now enjoying the biggest boom in Canada.

MONROE WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY ON SUNDAY
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., Sept. 23.—Mrs. Gilbert T. Hodges died very suddenly at her home in this city Sunday morning at 4 o'clock from heart failure, having been afflicted with valvular heart trouble for years. Her death occurred while Mr. Hodges was in Wilmet, S. D., where he has land interests. Her sister, Mrs. Grace Graham, of Minneapolis, who has been here to make her a six weeks' visit, was the only one present when the end came. A physician was hastily summoned but arrived two minutes after her death. Mrs. Hodges was seventy-two years of age and well beloved in this city, which has been her home for many years. She was an exemplary Christian woman, being a devoted member of St. Victor's church and a member of the societies in that church. She was feeling unusually bright on Saturday and had remarked to visitors that day on how well and strong she was. Surviving her is her husband, who is president of the Citizens' bank of Monroe; one daughter, Mrs. E. J. Manning of Janesville, who came here Sunday noon; and four sons: J. W. Hodges and Paul V. Hodges, this city; and Gilbert T. Hodges and L. A. Hodges of Chicago. She also leaves besides Mrs. Graham two other sisters, Mrs. C. A. Lytle of Monroe, and Mrs. Isabella Flanders of Chicago. Funeral arrangements will not be made until Mr. Hodges returns from Wilmet. It is expected he will reach here tomorrow evening.

CITY ATTORNEY FILES OPINION THAT STATE STATUTE IS INVALID

LAW PROVIDING FOR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS DECLARED TO BE UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

LEGISLATIVE POWERS

Are Taken Away by the Act, Declares City Attorney, And It Is An Unwarranted Interference With Local Self-government.

Holding that the state law with regard to the establishment of industrial, commercial and night schools, as provided for by Chapter 616 of the session laws of 1911, is invalid, City Attorney W. H. Dougherty, in an opinion to the mayor and council, filed today, in no uncertain terms expresses himself as to the reasons he believes the law to be unconstitutional and in violation of the powers of government. The law, he says, attempts to give to an administrative board legislative powers to levy taxes, and is an unwarranted interference with local government.

The law which reference is made to is the so-called "progressive" statute passed by the 1911 legislature. By its terms, the boards of industrial education in cities where such boards are organized and industrial schools established, may certify to the common council of the town, city or village where such a school is established, the amount necessary for running expenses or for the establishment of the school, and the council must provide for the levying of a special tax not to exceed in any one year one-half mill for the purpose of providing such funds. As the board of industrial education is elected by the board of education, and the people have no voice in their election, Mr. Dougherty holds that the law takes away part of the legislative powers of the people, and places too much power in the hands of a few.

The opinion was filed at the request of the mayor and council, following the submission of a report from the local board of industrial education, comprising Fred L. Smith, president, and members: V. P. Rich, Carl Buchholz, secretary; Supt. H. C. Buell, ex-officio; and Otto F. Schoof, that six thousand dollars would be needed for the establishment and maintenance for one year of an industrial school in Janesville. Before taking action on the matter the council decided to ask the opinion of the city attorney as to whether or not they might legally insert the amount in making up the budget for the year.

Just what action will be taken by the council will probably be determined at a meeting tomorrow of the board of industrial education with the common council. Warren B. Hicks of Madison, assistant for industrial education in the department of education at the state capital, will attend. Mr. Dougherty will also be present to present his views of the matter.

In twelve other cities, it is claimed, where the question arose as to whether or not the council might include an appropriation for industrial schools in the yearly budget, the councils, after conferring with their attorneys, have decided that the appropriation must be made, and that the city council must have no voice in the matter.

Under the law, if the school were established in this city, it is stated that sixty-three persons in this city between the ages of fourteen and sixteen, who are now working under special permits, would be required to attend the school. All apprentices working in shops, factories and would also have to attend. Others who desired to, might enroll as pupils. The school would give two hours of academic work and three hours of industrial work per week.

The opinion of the city attorney is as follows:

To the Honorable Mayor and Council of the City of Janesville:

Can the Industrial Board of Education, as organized under Chapter 616 of the laws of 1911, compel the council to make a levy of six thousand dollars for the purpose of establishing an industrial school?

After a somewhat careful examination of the law I am of the opinion that this chapter 616 is invalid, insofar as it gives to a purely administrative board the right to levy taxes upon the citizens of Janesville. The power to levy a tax is a legislative function and cannot be delegated to a purely administrative board, not elected by the people nor directly responsible to them. The legislative power is vested in the legislature and this courts have uniformly held that this legislature cannot delegate this power to bodies or boards not directly responsible to the people. If it were so then the legislature could barter away all legislative power and the people might then be governed by bodies and commissions over which they had no direct control. There is no objection to investing these boards with administrative power but for the reasons above stated any act which attempts to invest them with legislative power will fail of its purpose.

I am of the opinion also that this act insofar as it attempts to coerce the city of Janesville into establishing an industrial school, is void for the further reason that it is an unwarranted interference with the powers of local self-government.

I will not at this time go into an extended discussion of this matter, but will let it suffice to say that in my judgment the law is invalid for two reasons.

First, for the reason that it is an unwarranted interference with the powers of local self-government.

Second, that it is an attempted delegation of legislative power.

Respectfully submitted,

W. H. DOUGHERTY, City Attorney.

HUSBAND OF MONTH TAKES OWN LIFE BY SWALLOWING POISON

Cyrus Utter of Whitewater Suicides At Home Of Wife's Mother On North Main Street.

Cyrus Utter of Whitewater, a husband of one month, took his own life at about nine o'clock this morning, by swallowing almost an ounce of carbolic acid at the home of his wife's mother, Mrs. Jeanette Rice, 466 North Main street. He lived but a few minutes and although he received medical attention it was powerless to arrest the effects of the deadly acid. Temporary derangement, brought on by illness, is supposed to have impelled him to the act as his domestic relations are said to have been of the pleasantest.

Mr. and Mrs. Utter had been visiting at the home of Mrs. Rice, just south of the North Main street viaduct ever since last Wednesday. They were intending to return to Whitewater this morning on the train that leaves at 1:30 o'clock. Mr. Utter was ill and restless all last night, apparently suffering with attacks of heart trouble to which he was troubled. He refused to call in a physician as members of the family suggested. Once during the night he got up and asked if there was not some stimulant in the house. A small quantity was provided him.

At five o'clock this morning he arose and dressed but he did not care to eat the breakfast that was offered him. Mrs. Utter asked him if he was not going home to which he replied that he did not feel like doing so. He appeared to be suggesting that he wait until the afternoon. While Mrs. Utter was sitting in another room, Mr. Utter came out of his bedroom and secured a glass of water. Soon afterward he came out with the acid bottle in his hand, and acid stains on his face and said, "I've taken my last drink, repeating it after his wife's exclamation of horror. He then returned to the bedroom and threw himself on his bed.

Dr. Guy C. Wauke was at once summoned and arrived there within fifteen minutes time. Neighbors were also called in to assist, but nothing could be done to save the unfortunate man. On hearing the quantity of acid he had drank the physician declared that had he come at once his efforts would have been unavailing. The acid had been taken from a shelf in the sitting room, but no one saw Mr. Utter carry it out. The acid had been used for cleaning purposes.

Mr. Utter is a well-traveled by trade. He was married at Rockford about a month ago and has been a frequent visitor in Janesville. Surviving him are his wife, his parents, and two brothers, all of whom live in or near Whitewater. In disposition he was quiet and not a man of many words, but he was not known to have attacks of despondency.

The remains were removed to the undertaking rooms of Nelson Brothers and will be taken to Whitewater tomorrow.

Mrs. Shepard's Address: Every voter in Janesville should hear Mrs. Lulu Loveland Shepard's address on "The Ballot in Woman's Hand" at the Congregational church tomorrow, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Since all the interests of the home and all the evils that affect the home are largely dependent upon politics, should not women have the power to make themselves felt in the administration of affairs? Mrs. Shepard's lecture is free to the public.

DOCTORS SUBSCRIBE LIBERALLY TO FUND

Committee Secures Some $3,000 From Janesville Physicians Toward New Mercy Hospital.

Janesville physicians have subscribed liberally toward the building fund of the new Mercy hospital which is now being erected by the Sisters of Mercy on the lot on North Washington street adjoining the present hospital building. A subcommittee of the general finance committee, composed of Dr. Ryan and S. B. Hedges, visited the local physicians last week and secured pledges amounting to some $3,000 toward the building expense.

Plans for raising additional funds are being arranged by the committee which will meet this evening at the city hall. The meeting is called for eight o'clock and full attendance is requested as there are important matters to be considered.

FIFTY ADMITTED TO FULL CITIZENSHIP

Naturalization Cases Heard Before Judge Grimm in Special September Term of Court Today.

Fifty or more new citizens were secured for Rock county at the circuit court today when applications for second naturalization papers were heard before Judge Grimm at the special September term of the court. A representative of the United States naturalization office in Chicago appeared for the government and questioned the applicants and their witnesses in regard to the character and intentions of the prospective citizens. There was no objection offered to the men whose cases were heard today.

It was a noticeable fact that of those receiving full rights of United States citizenship today nearly forty per cent were of Scandinavian birth, most of them coming from Norway. There were also a large number of natives of Denmark, while Sweden had but one or two representatives. Those who claimed Germany as their native land were second in number while applicants hailing from Ireland and England were also numerous. Beloit sent by far the largest number of applicants of any one portion of the county. Those who received their second papers today included:

August Grossklous, Hanover; Ethel Brinkman, Alton; Louis W. Bowles, Beloit; August Brandenburg, Center; Johan C. Rohk, Center; Franz O. Blensash, Evansville; Chris W. The Evening Chit-Chat

HOMEOPATHIC TREATMENT.

THERE is a man in our town who is outrageously overbearing and disagreeable to the most part little white than ever lived. People who know him both often say "How can it be so disagreeable when she is so good? If she were sharp or cross, that would be another thing, but she is such a little angel, I can't understand it."

It seems to me that the very thing that puzzles them is a partial explanation of the trouble. Why shouldn't he be overbearing when she is always ready to lie down and let him walk over her? Why shouldn't he be disagreeable since he can always relieve his feelings that way without any fear of a comeback?

I am inclined to think that if he were sharp and cross occasionally, he'd be a little more careful how he picked on her. But she is always an angel of patience, why shouldn't he be a devil of unlivableness when he feels like it?

Angels make devils sometimes, I think, and goodness and badness are complementary to a greater degree than we realize. If you will look about you, you will see that the world is full of people who are cross and folks who let people be cross to them; children who are disorderly and mothers who patiently pick up after them; husbands who are overbearing and wives who are under spirited; wives who are outrageously extravagant and husbands who are miserly; folks who are eternally selfish and other folks who help them to be so by their self effacement.

Now, do these sufferers deserve as much pity as they usually receive, so long as they help maintain the cause of their sufferings? Probably most of them would tell you that nothing they could do would have any effect on the offenders. I think they are mistaken.

I think a great many of these people who impose on others in one way or other could be treated by homeopathic treatment. Homeopathic, I mean, as far as concerns the character of the dose, not its size. That is, they should be given doses of their own medicine.

Once upon a time there was a girl who was very disorderly and untidy about her room. Her mother fretted and fumed but patiently picked up after her, and the girl grew worse instead of better. Finally she married a man who not only did not pick up after her, but who was extremely disorderly himself. The result of this dose of her medicine was that she acquired the lacking bump of order.

Again, a woman who was naturally ultra easy going married a man who was some degrees more so. In this case the cure was even more speedy.

Now wasn't it too bad that the housemates of these people didn't apply this treatment years before?

Of course there are many chronic and aggravated cases of unlivableness that even the homeopathic treatment won't cure, but I am sure that it would always help.

At the smallest one of the critters, I forked it and put it to my teeth, but it did something, too, it started downward like a piece of ice. Not that I was not going to swallow it, but I wasn't ready to do it so soon. I wanted time for examination. But it went down noiselessly and softly. It was December and it was most froze and so was I.

"The second one I examined as I started out to do, only in my hand, not my mouth, and I thought I would heat it and myself up a bit by putting some pepper on it, so I peppered it—and it peppered me! My throat was macadamized all the way down. With a hot fork, but a sealing stomach and I tried the third one. I soaked it in hot water, then I sliced it in quarters and seasoned it with salt and vinegar and a sprinkling of sugar and hot water. Say, those quarters just slid down my throat and cleared it of pepper as they journeyed, they tasted like more. They were an improvement on everything I had ever eaten, they were delicious.

"My old pard was disgusted, he went home and not being able to get more oysters that night, I went to bed and in the morning finding that I still had my immortal soul and the oysters with me, I went to the beach and got more. Other folks may think some one else swallowed the first oyster, but they are mistaken; I am the first man to eat an oyster and the man who first put the oyster in the stew."

John Smith's recipe: Oyster on the half shell—Open the shells and remove any bits of shell, look for pearls and remove them. Season the oyster with salt, pepper and butter and a half a teaspoonful of catsup. When enough are ready place on a tin and slide into a hot oven for ten minutes. Serve on the shell.

Oyster stew—Heat as much milk as you want stew, drain the oysters from their liquor and add it to the milk with a half a cup of rolled oyster crumbs. At the last add the oysters, and when their ruffles curl, take up the stew and season each dishful as you serve it.

Oyster shortcake—Seems as if oysters like to be fixed this way, they taste so good, and if you mix a little chicken in with them they taste even better. Mince the oysters and cook them in a cream sauce, thickened with corn starch. Have baking powder or soda biscuit hot and buttered and waiting for them. Spread the oyster mixture between the split biscuits and put some on the top and eat at once.

Oyster omelette—Make a good-sized omelette with fresh laid eggs. Chop a dozen big oysters fine, season them and add to the omelette with a little parsley.

Husband Got Even. In Austria a woman was recently sent to jail for opening her husband's mail. She began a suit for divorce on evidence obtained from the letter and her husband retaliated by sending her to jail for opening the letter.

The Kitchen Cabinet

TODAY is your day and mine, the only day we have, the day in which we play our part. What our part may signify in the great whole, we may not understand, but we are here to play it, and now is our time. This we know; it is a part of action, not whining. It is a part of love, not cynicism. It is for us to express love in terms of human helpfulness. This we know, for we have learned from sad experience that any other course of life leads toward weakness and misery. —David Starr Jordan.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR LUNCHEON.

As variety is the spice of life, we are always on the lookout for something new, or odd, or unusual in the eating line. There is no excuse for monotony in the summer months, when there are such good things from farm and garden.

Cheese Omelet—Soak a cup of bread crumbs in two cupfuls of milk; add a pinch of soda, half a teaspoonful of salt, a pinch of cayenne and a teaspoonful of melted butter. Beat two eggs, add to the bread and milk and add a small cup of grated cheese. Bake in a hot oven until light brown.

When one has a few pieces of leftover steak, cut in small pieces and add to a good-sized onion which has been fried in hot fat. Dredge the onion with flour before frying. Add a cup of tomatoes and sufficient water to keep from burning. Season with paprika and cook slowly two hours.

A pretty way of serving eggs on toast is to cut half inch slices of bread with a large biscuit cutter. With a smaller cutter stamp out a circle half way through the slice, then hollow out the place and brown the bread in butter. Drop an egg in the hollow and place in the oven to bake. Season and garnish with parsley.

Golden Red Eggs—Prepare toast, cut in squares or circles. Cook a few eggs in the shell until hard; the number will depend upon the number to serve. Make a cup of rich white sauce by cooking together two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, adding the flour when the butter is bubbling hot. Then add a cup of milk or thin cream, a half teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of paprika. Chop the whites of the eggs, add them to the sauce. Butter the toast and pour over the white sauce. Put the egg yolks through a ricer and sprinkle over the white sauce.

THE "JAFFA RATION."

Professor Jaffa, of the University of California, recently formed a "peanut squad" to test the nutritive value of the ground nut. The members "lived in health on a ration composed of peanuts, served in various ways, and a little fruit," he says. The "Jaffa ration" is composed of peanuts, Japanese persimmons, with a little cereal and olive oil. There is enough oil in the peanut. A perfect ration for the proteid meal is made of three or four ounces of thoroughly dried, blanched (not roasted) peanuts and half a pound of toast. The supposed injurious effects of peanuts are due to the excessive roasting to which they are commonly subjected and improper mixing. As for the habit of eating a sack of peanuts between meals, one might as well eat a loaf of bread or a quarter of a pound of cheese.

DESPODENT WOMEN

Of course a woman will naturally see the dark side of everything when tortured by some form of female disease from which she cannot find relief.

No woman can be happy when there are irregularities, nervousness, backache, headache, dragging down pains, inflammation, ulceration or displacements. Such women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will go to the root of the evil and quickly dispel these troubles. It has been the safeguard of woman's health for nearly forty years and druggists sell large quantities of it.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Woolley

The latest bit of fashionable apparel (if you call it that) for women, is the cane.

A few fashionables in the feminine world have created a mild sensation here and there, by appearing in public disporting a cane. So far the practice hasn't been common. But now that canes are to be universally offered to the public at "slightly reduced" prices, possibly we shall soon see Titile of the lace counter so equipped, and Bridget of the kitchen sporting something akin to a shillalah, while Madame of the Almost-Elite Apartments trips along the pavement with a slender bit of wood.

Or Mrs. Kowalski, ambling through Central market marshaling her numerous brood with a small imitation of the "big stick."

For we must be fashionable or die, no matter what our station in life, and it's possible that the cane will become as universal as the near-silver mesh bag. What lady, attired in her best, would issue without one?

But how is a woman going to manage a cane in addition to her other equipment, fashionable or otherwise? A weighty handbag occupying one fist, an armful of small bundles; a large hat that wobbles with each breath of wind and which needs constant adjustment, skirts that must be lifted over muddy crossings, babies that must be carried or guided, pay-ent street car fares that must be extracted from a purse hidden deep in that same cumbersome handbag—pray, how is burdened woman going to carry a cane?

As all the world knows a woman with an umbrella, furled or open, is a dangerous creature. What might she be with a cane? She possibly would not hold it at an angle to poke out eyes, but if she undertook to swirl it as her fashionable grand-daddy was wont to do, upon a promenade down the avenue, what awful results might ensue! And if she tucked it under one arm, in an effort to reach a sample in her purse, or to apply her handkerchief, and suddenly turned to greet an acquaintance in the middle of a crowded sidewalk (as women do) think of the woe that would be felt in various vicinities somewhere around the third vest button.

And around the bargain counter, where hitherto only handbags have been the weapons—what would happen if every avid bargain-hunter carried a hickory stick? Also, in crushing aboard a car, would any wretched lady raise her cane to clear a path? Or, mayhap, would she use said cane to pry some mere man out of a hard-won seat?

As a defensive weapon, the cane has its merits. Now that the hapless is being legally banished, woman must have something to discourage the forward "masher." A stout cane, with a head full of lead, would be just the thing. The most persistent masher would recognize that his attentions were not acceptable, after he had picked himself up from the pavement and remembered what hit him.

Also, the cane might be made into a useful article by attaching small hooks around the top of it, whereupon could be hung those dangly things, which many women delight to carry about with them. The purse, the powder puff, the tiny mirror, the smelling salts (which relief of fainting dais is returning to us) and various vanity needs, might be delightfully disposed of in this fashion.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

Henrietta D. Graue

WHAT were the feelings of the first man to eat an oyster? This question has occurred to everyone of us and knowing that nothing is impossible I set out to discover that important person.

At last I found him down by the seashore, an old gray-haired, long-looter-for-man. His name was Smith. I interviewed him, John Charles Smith, middle name Mollusk, said: "Some years ago I was down by the beach with an old pard who vowed I was afeared to eat one of those contemptuous oysters. I told him I was afeared of nothing and that I would eat three of them on his date. We got three of them and cooked them for ten minutes and put them in cold water, thinking they would taste better fixed cold."

C. F. BROCKHAUS & SON, Prop.

DENIES SLANDERING CITY OF JANESVILLE

EVANGELIST J. GREENE INSISTS THAT HE SPOKE THE TRUTH.

BEARS NO ILL WILL

Attacked Habits of Dissipation and Inefficiency At Meeting For Men Yesterday Afternoon.

"Some of you have come here expecting to hear your 'city reviled,' said the Evangelist Greene in opening his address to an audience of men in the auditorium yesterday afternoon. 'If so, you will be disappointed. I have nothing more to say about your city. I have no quarrel with it. It is as fine a place as could wish to live in as far as location and trimmings are concerned. What its needs is a moral awakening.'"

The Rev. Greene emphatically denied the accusation that he slandered the city in his last Sunday's address. "A slander is a false accusation. I have brought none such. I stand ready to uphold and defend my statements then made. I do not credit the report that our Chief of Police took my statements as a joke. If I had said anything of the kind, I would have been before a board of insanity experts. If one thinks that damned souls are a joke it is a certain sign of a perverted mind."

"The thought which I wish to impress upon your minds this afternoon is the reform and reclamation of the individual. We have given much thought and placed great faith in methods of reforming men in masses, but reform never comes that way. Christ did not save men that way. He saved them as individuals. 'Let us look along the channels of life. At the present day you seldom find a man that is fully developed. All along the line you find men perverted in one way or another. There are few original and master minds in the service of the state in the pit, or in business; few who do right just because it is right. How many men dare to be a Daniel and stand foursquare defying all attempts to swerve them from the right and the truth?"

"Why is it? Bad habits? Yes. But why bad habits? A perverted nature; misuse and abuse of God-given powers; wasteful expenditure and dissipation of energy; a failure to control those powers which make a man rise superior and triumphant in the face of life's temptations and trials. "Consider the ideals of the savage young man. Something is wrong when he thinks the first steps into manhood are to take the first smoke, the first drink, or to tell a smutty story. One of the greatest proudest of high school principals in this country over is to put to dissipation. Because of it many boys never finish their course or only partially realize their possibilities."

"All over this country are to be found asylums, feeble-minded homes, blind institutes, and similar institutions. They are increasing and becoming overcrowded. What is the cause of it all? I attribute it to perverted human nature, dissipation, and unrestrained passions, and until we can get back to the individual and reform him we are not going to make any progress. I do not believe it was God's purpose for men to be dissipated, or defective. They are the fruit of sin and evil passions."

The Rev. Greene did not announce his text until he had spoken for some time. He then read the seventh and eighth verses of the sixth chapter of Galatians: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. "For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."

"More truthful words were ever uttered. Yet in the face of this knowledge men are going straight for perdition with their eyes wide open. I believe in a hell. I believe in it from start to finish, that there is a place of eternal punishment out of the presence of God. Is the fire and brimstone real? I do not know. If it is merely a figure I do not want to know the real thing."

"We need a personal understanding with God, to know his purposes for us. The average boy or girl do not know why they are in the world, or what are their responsibilities to God or to their fellowmen. Men and women do not realize their responsibility for the welfare of the succeeding generation, their right to sound bodies and minds. There is only one way to get right; it is to be born again. God has promised

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. "For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."

"More truthful words were ever uttered. Yet in the face of this knowledge men are going straight for perdition with their eyes wide open. I believe in a hell. I believe in it from start to finish, that there is a place of eternal punishment out of the presence of God. Is the fire and brimstone real? I do not know. If it is merely a figure I do not want to know the real thing."

that "whoever cometh unto me I will nowise cast out." He is able to save to the uttermost. He can make you true temples of the Holy Spirit. What we want is more Christ on the inside. He has been on the outside too long. Tribute was paid by the speaker to the character of William Jennings Bryan, whom he thought one of the finest specimens of pure manhood in public life, a man who never used language he could not use in the presence of his wife, and who had preserved intact and developed to their fullest extent his natural God-given powers.

"The Devil is loose in Chicago," said the Rev. Greene in referring to that city. "He is not chained or tethered."

The Rev. Greene closed his series of meetings at the auditorium last night and will return to Chicago. A good sized audience heard both his afternoon and evening addresses.

TO INAUGURATE NEW COURSE AT THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Sept. 22.—With the recent appointment of Frank B. Moody, assistant state forester of Wisconsin, to the position of assistant professor of forestry in the University of Wisconsin, the first steps have been taken to establish a course for forest rangers at that institution. As now planned, the new course will cover two sessions of six months each, extending over a period of two years. One half of each session will be spent at the university during the winter, the other half in the field during the spring and summer. In this way students will get both technical and practical knowledge. It is expected that all plans and equipment for the new work will be completed by January first.

Prof. Moody is a graduate of Bates College, Maine and of the forestry school of the University of Michigan. Since his graduation from Michigan, in 1906, he has been in charge of the field work of the Wisconsin State Forest Service, under State Forester E. M. Griffith.

During the past seven years the forest reserves of Wisconsin have been increased from forty thousand to four hundred thousand acres. This huge area is now being placed under scientific forest management and has led a strong demand for qualified forest rangers. The United States forest service also offers many opportunities for men trained in this work. For those who prefer employment with private concerns there are always openings with large land, lumber and mining companies, paper and pulp mills and other lumber-consuming industries.

SUMMER BIDS FAREWELL AND AUTUMN HAS ARRIVED.

Old Lady Summer with her pleasant sunshine, packed up her fresh green dress on Sunday, and at 5 o'clock this morning left for parts unknown. In her stead she leaves saucy Autumn, with her biting winds and her brilliant colored dresses, who will stay for three months, and then give way to old Winter's icy blasts.

There may be some who dispute this, saying that summer ended on Sept. 21, but, according to Maj. E. B. Hersey, of Milwaukee, inspector of the weather bureau, these people are misinformed, as the date is changeable. The same phenomena that gives us twenty-nine days in February every fourth year changes the date of the equinoxes.

"It was a blunder on the part of those who started to measure time," said Maj. Hersey, "but we have got along pretty well so far, and probably will continue to do so."

"To determine the date of the equinoxes we must determine from tables of observation the exact time the path of the apparent sun crosses the celestial circle. We do this by determining the angles of the apparent declination of the right ascension. Both ought to come about the same. In this case we get them to be at 5 o'clock in the morning of Sept. 22."

"Because sometimes it falls a little earlier than this has caused the popular belief that it always falls on Sept. 21."

WHY WHO'S WHO.

RESTAURANTS.

A RESTAURANT is a place frequented by low-spirited husbands and people who are not in the habit of refusing food in any form. The cheaper grade of restaurants are also frequented by the most pestiferous variety of fly on the domestic market, which is continually dropping into somebody's coffee and trying to swim to shore.

Restaurants are run for the purpose of making money for the proprietors and also to provide a haven for male guests whose home life is in need of repairs.

As this happens to practically every American citizen on wash day, restaurants are crowded on Mondays with depressed husbands and fathers decorated with splints and bandages.

A short order restaurant is a resort where you can get whatever happens to be left the same day you order it. Nearly all of the short orders consist of two sinkers and a cup of alleged coffee. The advantage of this system is that a full-grown man can eat himself into a close resemblance of apoplexy on fifteen cents' worth of menu.

The a la carte restaurant is an expensive proposition which makes a specialty of serving meals with a time-lock attachment. It is nothing uncommon for a guest who is not in a hurry to order a planked whitefish at one of these restaurants at the lunch hour, and not be able to fold up his napkin until the curfew strikes.

When a restaurant puts on a three-piece orchestra and a few potted palms, it is called a cafe and resorted to by the indecent rich. The bill of fare at a cafe is printed in the French language so that nobody can tell what the food will taste like until the waiter has disappeared. It also has a wine list which heads in mournful accents.

Cafe food is served by the portion. A portion is enough to founder a hardy family, while a half portion wouldn't slow up the appetite of a canary bird. On this account, very few people order half portions nowadays unless they have just risen from an adjacent banquet.

Why do Brewers of Germany and England use only Brown Bottles?

Sunlight grows the hops, but spoils the brew.

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives best protection against light.

In England and Germany the brewers won't use light glass bottles.

"Beer should not be exposed to the light, especially direct sunlight, as it will thereby be detrimentally affected, the light having an influence upon the albuminoids in the beer, causing the latter to become hazy," says no less a person than Philip Dreesbach, the eminent German expert and scientist in the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—It is plain, however, that Bimpkins did not deceive Grace.

The Chronicles of Addington Peace

By B. FLETCHER ROBINSON
Co-Author with A. Conan Doyle of 'The Hound of the Baskervilles', etc.

"Here?" cried the Pole, with a stare of unbelief changing into sudden terror. "Here—in my room."

"So I believe," said Peace.

The man swayed for an instant, grasping at the back of a chair, and then dropped to the ground, moaning, his face covered with his hands. In that crouching figure before us was written the extremity of despair.

"Come, come, Greatman, pull yourself together," said the inspector, tapping him kindly on the shoulder. "If you are innocent, there is no need to make all this fuss."

"It was Nicolai who lied to me," he cried, looking up with bewildered eyes. "Very probably," said Peace, "it is a habit with him."

"Yet it was I, miserable that I am, who made the meeting between them. Before Heaven, it was with the innocence of a child. If those my comrades of the club but knew—"

He hesitated, his eyes searching the room in sudden terror.

"Oblige me by seeing that we have no comrades already at the keyhole, Mr. Phillips," said Peace.

"There was no one at the door; no one in the dark passage; and when I returned I found that Peace had lifted the caretaker to a chair, where he sat in a crumpled heap."

"You can trust us," the detective was saying. "Believe me, Greatman, it will be best for yourself that you hide nothing."

And so with many fierce cries and protestations, this poor creature began his story.

It was Nicolai, he seemed, who had discovered that Greatman, the caretaker of the Brutus Club, was one and the same with the forger, Ivan Kroll, of Odessa, who had been wanted by the Russian police for close upon twelve years. But having a shrewd head on his shoulders, Nicolai made no immediate use of his knowledge. For forgery a man might be extradited from England. Once in Russia the charge would be altered to nihilism, and then—Siberia. It was not pleasant for the caretaker of a nihilist club to be at the mercy of a black-bearded spy lounging on the step outside. "It was that which drove me to the brandy," said poor Greatman, alias Kroll.

About the end of August there began, he continued, a duel of wits between the two men, Amaroff and Nicolai, the reasons and causes of which did not, if he might be permitted to say, concern us. Nicolai's career was dependent on his success. For him, failure meant permanent disgrace. Yet it was Amaroff who was playing with his opponent as a cat with a mouse, confusing and surprising him at every turn, driving him, indeed, when time grew pressing, into desperate measures. At the last he formed a plan, did Nicolai, a scheme worthy of his most cunning brain.

"This, then, he did," ended the poor caretaker. "He came to me—I who had so great love and honor for Amaroff, my friend, I whom he had turned from crime and aided to earn a wage in honesty—he came to me and he says: 'Kroll, in my pocket is a warrant that will send you back to the snow places in the East; do you fear me, my good Kroll?' And I feared him. 'See, now,' he said, 'we desire to see your friend Amaroff for a little talk. We cannot harm him here in this mad country. Contrive a trick, bring him into your private room behind the bar. Give us the key of the yard door that we may come secretly to him—and afterwards you will hear no more of Siberia from me. Do you consent?'"

"Gentlemen, I believed him, also having fear of the snow places; and I consented."

"So Amaroff answered my call, and with some excuse I left him in this room. It was at a time when few members were in the club—about seven of the clock. And that, as I live, is all I have to tell. I waited at my seat behind the bar. I saw nothing, heard nothing—and at last when I went to my room, behold it was empty! I tried to suspect no wrong—but I did not sleep that night. In the morning I saw in the papers that as I expected, at the corner of Harden Place, but a street preceding it. Down this we walked quickly until we came upon a seedy-looking fellow with a red muffer about his neck, leaning against the wall.

I was surprised when we halted in front of him.

"Good evening, Harrison," said the inspector. "Anything to report?"

"They're there, sir. They came about ten minutes ago. Job and Turner are watching the door in Harden Place, and I came here."

"They didn't see any of you?"

"No, sir, I am sure of it."

"You had better join the others in Harden Place. Keep within hearing, and if I whistle, kick in the side door of the studio—it can be done. There is a man who I fancy will have a key to the door that is due in about five minutes. If I have not whistled before he arrives, let him through. You understand?"

"Yes, sir."

The detective faded discreetly into the darkness, while the inspector turned to me.

"There may be complications, Mr. Phillips, and no slight danger. I must ask you to go home."

"I shall do nothing of the sort."

"Mutiny," he said; but I could see that he was smiling. "You are rather a fraud, Mr. Phillips—rather a fraud, you know. There is more of a fighter than a dilettante in you, after all. Come, then, over you go."

A jump, a scramble, and all three of us were over the wall, dropping into a ragged shrubbery of laurel. We groped and stumbled our way through the growth of bushes until we emerged on a grass plot. Then I understood. We were at the back of Amaroff's studio. On one side where we stood was the outhouse, its sloping roof reaching up to the long windows under the eaves—the upper lights, as sculptors call them. And even as I looked there came through these windows a flicker of light, an eye that winked in the darkness and was gone.

We crept softly forward until we reached the shadow of the outhouse. It was roofed with rough tiles, which came to within seven feet of the ground. Fortunately, they did not project out from the wall of the building.

"You must help us up, Jackson," Peace whispered, "and then go round to the door, which I see at the back there. If they make a bolt that way, blow your whistle. If I whistle, start hammering on the door as if you were a dozen men. Now then, take me on your shoulders."

He scrambled to the roof like a cat. Lying flat he thrust out a hand. A bolt from the sergeant, and I landed beside him. We waited a few moments, and then commenced to work our way up the roof. From its upper angle I found that the greater part of the interior of the studio was within our observation.

The moonlight that drifted through the opposing panes flooded the center of the studio with soft light, in the midst of which the bust in bronze rose darkly upon its pedestal. A minute, and then the eye of light winked out, flickered, explored the pools of shadow, and finally steadied on the wall as three men moved from the room beneath us, following one by one. A second lantern came into play, and before our eyes commenced a search such as I could have hardly credited, so swift, methodical and thorough were its methods. The cushions were probed with long pins, the cracks of bare boards, and the nails that held them in position, were studied each in turn, the plastered walls were sounded inch by inch, the locks of desk and drawer were picked with the ease of mechanical knowledge.

We heard it before the men below, the faint patter, patter on the road outside of a runner in desperate haste. The footsteps grew silent, and in the pause there must have come a sound, audible to them though not to us, for the lantern slides were shut down like the snapping of teeth, and the men vanished into the gloom. Only the moonlight remained, bathing the Nero in its gentle beams. I glanced at Peace. His expression was one of beatific enjoyment, but his whistle was at his lips.

I could not see the entrance door, so that the struggle was well-nigh over before I knew it was begun. The stranger fought hard, as I judged from the snuffing thuds, yet he raised no cry of help. Then the eyes of the lanterns glowed again and they led him into the center of the studio with the glint of steel marking the handcuffs on his wrists. It was Greatman—the fox that had run into the den of the wolves.

"And so, mon ami, you play a double game."

It was not until he spoke that I realized that I could hear what went forward within. The big ventilators above me were open, and Nicolai—for it was he—did not modulate his voice.

"It is you that killed him," cried the prisoner, raising his fettered hands. "You that have betrayed me. Murderer and liar that you are."

His frail body shook to the fury that was on him; but the Russian laughed in his black beard, stroking it with his hands.

"I had almost forgotten," he said. "It may be that you have some cause of complaint against me. But now that you are here, you will doubtless be kind enough to save us trouble. Where, my good Kroll, are the bombs hidden?"

"Do you think I shall tell you?"

"Remember, Amaroff is dead. They will not go to Paris now. Do not be foolish. Show me the hiding place, and no harm shall come to you."

"No."

"Then you will return to Russia. The Odessa forgery will carry you there by English law—but, remember, it is for something more than forgery that you will have to answer when you arrive."

There was a silence, and then Nicolai spoke again—two words.

"Sagallen Island."

"I shall not go there," said the prisoner, simply. "I shall not go there—Nicolai the spy, Nicolai the murderer and liar!"

"Then you will achieve a miracle. For, as the czar rules, before a week is out you will be on the sea, and within a month—stop him, stop him!"

What bird?

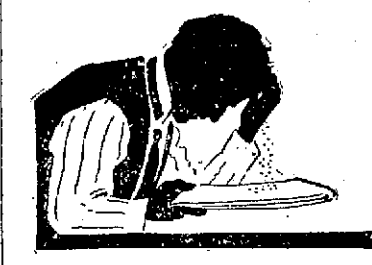

His Grounds.

By a queer trick of politics an ignorant and pompous old dandy was elected judge of a minor court in a certain western state. In the first case over which he presided he made a ruling so absurd that the lawyer whose case was affected by it said: "This is a very strange ruling, your honor. Upon what grounds do you make it?" "What grounds—does you say? Why, dese yer' co'thouse grounds, of co'se!" replied the judge.—Judge.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Sept. 23, 1872.—Teachers' Institute.—Fallows Tonight.—The Rock county teachers' institute opened this afternoon at two o'clock, in the basement of the Baptist church, with a fair attendance. The number of participants will doubtless be augmented by the incoming trains today and tomorrow. Rev. S. Fallows arrived this afternoon and will deliver an address on educational matters in the Baptist church this evening, commencing at half past seven o'clock.

Our City Schools.—Considerable delay has been encountered in re-opening the public schools for the fall term, but they are all in operation, with the exception of the high school department, and it is impossible now to fix the date of its continuance. Improvements in the internal arrangement of several of the school buildings is the cause of the delay, the manufacturers of seats and desks failing to supply those articles within the time contracted for. A portion of the high school furniture has been received and as soon as the balance arrives that department will be ready for the fall and winter work.

Concert Tonight.—Woollett's concert takes place this evening at the opera house. If this was an ordinary occasion the weather might be a sufficient excuse for not attending, but when the best musical talent of our city is brought together in a comparatively small focus of a single concert, people who are not willing to brave the dangers of a few raindrops, hardly deserve the privilege of listening to those charms which soothe the savage breast.

Brief Items.—Workmen are hastening the completion of the repairs on the upper dam in the expectation of a still greater rise in the river.

C. Maguire has bought out William Eager and will hereafter conduct the blacksmith shop on the corner of Pluff and East Milwaukee.

Munchausenisms.
A New York journal says there are cornstalks in Connecticut "as large as a small tree." How convenient! Now, in the Ohio valley bottom lands the chisel drawback to corn raising is that the squirrels climb the stalks and when safely out of rifle range eat the ears, while the alrship in its present development wabbles so that it is no good to shoot from.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Importance of Self-Control.
"The ability to restrain appetite, passions, tongue and temper, to be their master and not their slave—in a word, absolute self-control—is also of first importance. One who can not govern himself is unfitted to govern others."—Marshall Field.
